In order to throw some light upon the causes leading up to this state of affairs we consider it wise to publish an old letter, February 17, WM, from Inspector B. H. Burr: I recently had the opportunity of visiting New Orleans and Beta Phi Chapter. I found that we have as fine a set of fellows individually there as any where, and that they are up to our standard of men, but their chapter organization is very weak. There is good excuse for this on account of their surroundings. Tulane, you know, is scattered all over the city--the academic in one place, the law in another, and the medical in yet another. Our membership is thus scattered, and the work hours in the different departments so conflict that there is great difficulty in getting a meeting hour suitable to all. Notwithstanding the obstacles, it seems to me that they could with a proper effort get closer together, and I tried to impress this upon them. We have sixteen members there, and from what I could bear they all stand well, as is the habit of our chapters, with everybody. Beta Theta, Alabama Polytechnic Institute--J. B. Powell. All of our boys returned after the holidays; and we all hope to make these next six months more successful and progressing than we did those three before. We have determined to start the new year off with harder work, taking more interest in our Fraternity,...
